IntraMessenger is an application that allows you to communicate and exchange files with other people in your workplace of office building. The application displays a user-friendly interface that is well suited for users of all experience levels. IntraMessenger is very easy to install and configure. All that is really important when it comes to running it is to have the right server address that will make conversing possible. IntraMessenger is as straightforward as can be. You get a main window from where you can view all your contacts and manage them into groups. Since the application is made to facilitate communication between people in a workgroup, it also offers a 'ShoutBox' feature which allows multiple people to express their thoughts in the same place, just like in a conference call. This is a very helpful feature to have for instances when a decision needs to be made by vote or when a brainstorming session is needed. Another use for IntraMessenger is to help transfer files across the workplace. With it you are able to upload and share documents with coworkers in a public place. If it is required to, the application allows you to vote for or against any of the published files. To view a file, you need to download it to your computer because the application does not provide a preview feature. This shouldn't really bother you since you get an option to download and open a selected file. Besides public domain, you can very well send private files to people in your list and in case you don't want to be bothered, setting the status to 'Do Not Disturb' makes sure you don't receive any messages from people except the ones you set to the 'VIP' list. All in all, IntraMessenger is good looking application with very practical functions that can definitely find its place in an office environment.
